

seq., with the United States Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS) and National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS) on the Coordinated LTO of the CVP and SWP.¹⁰ 2019 BA at 1-1. The USFWS accepted the reinitiation request on August 3, 2016, and the NMFS accepted the reinitiation request on August 17, 2016. Id. The 2019 BA supports Reclamation's consultation under Section 7 of the ESA, and documents the potential effects of the proposed actions¹¹ to provide identification of DWR as part of the "application" for the reinitiation request does not act to convert the 2019 BA into a "particular matter involving specific parties."

¹⁰ As codified in 16 U.S.C. § 1531, the purpose of the ESA is to protect and recover imperiled species and the ecosystems upon which they depend. It is administered by the USFWS and the NMFS. The USFWS has primary responsibility for terrestrial and freshwater organisms, while the responsibilities of NMFS are mainly marine wildlife such as whales and anadromous fish, such as salmon. Under the ESA, species may be listed as either endangered or threatened. "Endangered" means a species is in danger of extinction throughout all or a significant portion of its range. 16 U.S.C. § 1532(6). "Threatened" means a species is likely to become endangered within the foreseeable future. 16 U.S.C. § 1532(20). All species of plants and animals, except pest insects, are eligible for listing as endangered or threatened. For the purposes of the ESA, Congress defined species to include subspecies, varieties, and, for vertebrates, distinct population segments.

The ESA directs all Federal agencies to work to conserve endangered and threatened species and to use their authorities to further the purposes of the ESA. Section 7 of the ESA, called "Interagency Cooperation," is the mechanism by which Federal agencies ensure the actions they take, including those they fund or authorize, do not jeopardize the existence of any listed species or adversely modify or destroy critical habitats. 16 U.S.C. § 1536. Under Section 7, Federal agencies must consult with the USFWS (and/or NMFS as appropriate) when any action the agency carries out, funds, or authorizes (such as through a permit) may affect a listed endangered or threatened species. This process often begins as informal consultation. Id. A Federal agency, in the early stages of project planning, approaches the USFWS (and/or NMFS as appropriate) and requests informal consultation. Discussions between the agencies may include what types of listed species may occur in the proposed action area, and what effect the proposed action may have on those species. If it appears that the agency's action may affect a listed species, that agency may then prepare a biological assessment to assist in its determination of the project's effect on a species. 16 U.S.C. § 1536(c).

When a Federal agency determines, through a biological assessment or other review, that its action is likely to adversely affect a listed species, the agency submits to the USFWS (and/or NMFS as appropriate) a request for formal consultation. During formal consultation, the USFWS (and/or NMFS as appropriate) and the agency share information about the proposed project and the species likely to be affected. Formal consultation may last up to 90 days, after which the USFWS (and/or NMFS as appropriate) will prepare a biological opinion on whether the proposed activity will jeopardize the continued existence of a listed species. The USFWS (and/or NMFS as appropriate) has 45 days after completion of formal consultation to write the opinion. Please note that these timeframes may be extended upon agreement between the action agency and the services the USFWS (and/or NMFS as appropriate).

¹¹ The proposed action analyzed in the 2019 BA centers on a Core Water Operation that provides for Reclamation and DWR to operate the CVP and SWP for water supply and to meet the requirements of State Water Resources Control Board (SWRCB) Water Right Decision 1641 (D-1641), along with other project purposes. 2019 BA at 1-2. The Core Water Operation consists of operational actions that do not require subsequent concurrence or extensive coordination to define annual operation. Id. The proposed action also includes conservation measures designed to minimize or reduce the effects of the action on listed species. Id. In addition, the 2019 BA and resulting consultation evaluates actions that will require operational flexibility for the CVP and SWP, large-scale government programs that divert, store, and convey water throughout California for various purposes, on federally listed endangered and threatened species that have the potential to occur in the action area and critical habitat for these species. Id. It also fulfills consultation requirements for the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act of 1976 for Essential Fish Habitat. Id.

As set forth in the 2019 BA, several factors resulted in Reclamation requesting reinitiation of consultation under the ESA, including the apparent decline in the status of several listed species, new information related to recent multiple years of drought, and the evaluation of best available science. <https://www.usbr.gov/mp/bdo/lto.html>. The coordinated long-term operations of the CVP and SWP are currently subject to 2008 and 2009 biological opinions issued pursuant to Section 7 of the ESA. 2019 BA at 1.1.2, 1-4-5. Each of these biological opinions included Reasonable and Prudent Alternatives to avoid the likelihood of jeopardizing the continued existence of listed species, or the destruction or adverse modification of critical habitat that were the subject of consultation. Id. In the 2019 BA, Reclamation proposes to maximize water deliveries and optimize marketable power generation consistent with applicable laws, contractual obligations, and agreements, and to augment operational flexibility by addressing the status of listed species. <https://www.usbr.gov/mp/bdo/lto.html>.

After review, the DEO has determined that the 2019 BA should not be categorized as either a “particular matter involving specific parties” or a “particular matter of general applicability,” but rather as a “matter” as defined for purposes of this memorandum. Therefore, DOI employees would not be required to recuse from participation in the 2019 BA under 18 U.S.C. § 208, 5 C.F.R. § 2635.502, or the Ethics Pledge. This decision is consistent with prior DEO analysis and interpretations of Biological Assessments (BAs) and Biological Opinions issued pursuant to the requirements of the ESA, and is supported by the decision of the D.C. Circuit in Van Ee.

Generally, a BA is a compilation of the information prepared by or under the direction of a Federal agency as part of its Section 7 consultation concerning listed and proposed species and designated and proposed critical habitat that may be present in the action area and the evaluation of potential effects of the action on such species and habitat. 16 U.S.C. § 1536(c). A BA evaluates the potential effects of the action on listed and proposed species and designated and proposed critical habitat and determines whether any such species or habitat are likely to be adversely affected by the proposed actions and is used in determining whether formal consultation or a conference is necessary. Id.

The 2019 BA analyzes and includes as an environmental baseline, the past and present impacts of all federal, state, and private actions and other human activities in the action area, the anticipated impacts of all proposed federal projects in the action area that have already undergone formal or early Section 7 consultation, and the impact of certain state or private actions that are contemporaneous with the consultation in process, including the past and present impacts of CVP and SWP operations under 2008 and 2009 biological opinions. 2019 BA at 3-1-21. The BA also analyzes the effects of multiple physical, hydrological, and biological alterations that have negatively affected the species and habitat considered in the consultation with the USFWS and NMFS, including past, present, and ongoing effects of the existence of the CVP structures, as well as disconnected floodplains and drained tidal wetlands, levees, gold and gravel mining, gravel, timber production, marijuana cultivation, large woody debris, alterations to address effects, fish passage, spawning and rearing habitat augmentation, tidal marsh restoration, etc. Id. The 2019 BA also sets forth a series of proposed actions that – if implemented – will work to maximize water deliveries and optimize marketable power generation consistent with applicable laws, contractual obligations, and agreements, and to augment operational flexibility while minimizing impact to listed species. 2019 BA at 4-1-62; 5-1-498; 6-1-4.

Additionally, applying the D.C. Circuit's decision in Van Ee, BAs generally may not even constitute "particular matters," let alone "particular matters involving specific parties." As noted by the D.C. Circuit in Van Ee: "...whether an administrative proceeding is a 'particular matter' . . . is determined by the nature and focus of the governmental decision to be made or action to be taken as a result of the proceeding. Only where the decision is focused on a probable particularized impact on discrete and identifiable parties [is it a particular matter]." Van Ee, 202 F.3d at 309. As discussed above, the 2019 BA is not focused on a probable particularized impact on discrete and identifiable parties. Instead, the 2019 BA evaluates the potential effects of the action on a number of listed and proposed species and designated and proposed critical habitats, and determines whether any such species or habitat are likely to be adversely affected by the proposed actions and is used in determining whether formal consultation or a conference is necessary. Id. Moreover, the numerous proposed actions that the 2019 BA discusses will work together to provide additional operational flexibility for the continued operation of the CVP and SWP, both of which, as described above in greater detail, are federal and state government projects that are enormous in geographical extent and impact on the people, wildlife, and environment of California. As a result, the proposed actions under review in the 2019 BA take into account and have the potential to impact a wide and diverse sets of interests, and the 2019 BA analyzes how to reconcile or balance recreational, conservation, and commercial interests in the operation of the CVP and SWP.

Accordingly, even though some of the issues, decisions, and actions undertaken by the DOI with respect to the preparation, development, drafting, discussion, and submission of the 2019 BA may have a discernible impact on the interests of certain identifiable parties, the overall impact and focus of the proposed actions and decisions to be made are of a much broader nature, including the avoidance of jeopardizing the continued existence of a listed species and the destruction or adverse modification of designated critical habitat in connection with the continued operation of the CVP and the SWP. Consistent with this, the DOI's work on the 2019 BA did not focus on the legal rights of the parties or an isolatable transaction or related set of transactions between identified parties, such as a specific contract, grant, license, product approval application, enforcement action, administrative adjudication, or court case; or on the interests of a discrete and identifiable class of persons. Therefore, it is not appropriately categorized as a "particular matter" as defined in 5 C.F.R. § 2635.402(b)(3), 5 C.F.R. § 2640.103(a)(1), 5 C.F.R. § 2641.201(h)(1) ("particular matters involving specific parties"), or 5

C.F.R. § 2641.201(h)(2) (“particular matters of general applicability”). The 2019 BA considered a wide range of diverse issues related to and the interests of the environmental, agricultural, industrial, municipal, business, academic, and recreational sectors. As result, the DOI’s work on the 2019 BA involved multifaceted discussions among representatives of those numerous sections and industries in a process that more closely resembles legislative policymaking than contracting, litigation, or negotiations. The issues, decisions, and actions undertaken by the DOI with respect to the preparation, development, drafting, discussion, and submission of the 2019 BA are therefore appropriately characterized as a “matter” as defined for purposes of this memorandum, and DOI employees would not be required to recuse from participation in the 2019 BA under 18 U.S.C. § 208, 5 C.F.R. § 2635.502, or the Ethics Pledge.

IV. Guidance On Assessing Whether Issues, Decisions, and/or Actions Involving the CVP and/or SWP Are “Matters,” “Particular Matters of General Applicability,” or “Particular Matters Involving Specific Parties”

As set forth in greater detail above, the DEO has determined that both the Draft EIS NOI and the 2019 BA are appropriately categorized as “matters” as defined in this memorandum. It is important to note that as work on the Draft EIS NOI and the 2019 BA continues, it is possible that certain aspects of each, such as the implementation of certain underlying actions, interpretation of specific requirements, or the application of decisions on one sector, could develop into “particular matters of general applicability” or “particular matters involving specific parties.” This, in turn, can implicate the recusal or disqualification requirements of 18 U.S.C. § 208, 5 C.F.R. § 2635.502, or the Ethics Pledge.

Accordingly, DOI employees should not assume that the conclusions of this memorandum are applicable to every EIS or BA, or to the entire lifecycle of either the Draft EIS NOI or the 2019 BA at the DOI. Further, while the CVP and SWP projects taken as a whole at DOI are “matters” as defined in this memorandum, DOI employees should not conclude that each issue, decision, and/or action that impacts the CVP or SWP are also “matters.” Instead, the DEO recommends that DOI employees assess whether the issues, decisions, and/or actions that they undertake with respect to the CVP and the SWP are best categorized as:

- broad policy options that are directed to the interests of a large and diverse group of persons;
- an issue, decision, and/or action focused on the interests of a discrete and identifiable class, such as a particular industry or profession; or
- a specific proceeding affecting the legal rights of certain parties or an isolatable transaction or related set of transactions between identified parties, such as a specific contract, grant, license, product approval application, enforcement action, administrative adjudication, or court case.

In order to assist DOI employees in categorizing their work on CVP and SWP issues, decisions, and/or actions pending before the DOI, the DEO has prepared the chart below as a general reference guide. It sets forth the three general categories under the ethics laws and regulations and includes examples of certain issues, decisions, and/or actions involving the CVP and SWP that could potentially be categorized as “matters,” “particular matters of general applicability,” or “particular matters involving specific parties.”

CATEGORIES	EXAMPLES
“Matters” as defined in this memorandum <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Broad policy options that are directed to the interests of a large and diverse group of persons 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Draft EIS NOI [as described above] • 2019 BA [as described above] • Issue, decision, and/or action that impacts all industries and sectors involved with the CVP and/or SWP • CVP-wide operational and programmatic policy decisions
“Particular Matters of General Applicability” <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Issue, decision, and/or action focused on the interests of a discrete and identifiable class, such as a particular industry or profession 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Issue impacting only the agricultural industry involved with the CVP and/or SWP • Decision limited only to hydroelectric power generators • Action focused only on municipal water issues • Anything that impacts an entire sector and/or industry or a subset of sectors and/or industries involved with and impacted by the CVP and/or SWP
“Particular Matters Involving Specific Parties” <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Specific proceeding affecting the legal rights of certain parties or an isolatable transaction or related set of transactions between identified parties 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • CVP Water Contracts • Litigation • Settlement Agreements • Permit for a specific party or parties • Specific request from individual(s) or entity(ies)

In every case, the categorization of issues, decisions, and/or actions will depend on the specific facts involved, and the DEO is available to provide specific guidance and assistance in making such determinations.

V. Conclusion

This memorandum reflects the current analysis and guidance of the DEO on how the types of issues, decisions, and/or actions involving the CVP and the DOI’s coordination of operations with the SWP, should be categorized as “matters,” “particular matters of general applicability,” or “particular matters involving specific parties” pursuant to the definitions of those terms in ethics regulations and guidance from the OGE. As discussed in greater detail above, the DEO has determined that both the Draft EIS NOI and the 2019 BA are “matters” as defined in this memorandum and, as such, DOI employees would not be required to recuse from participation in either the Draft EIS NOI or the 2019 BA under 18 U.S.C. § 208, 5 C.F.R. § 2635.502, or the Ethics Pledge.

While there are other similar broad policy determinations impacting the entire CVP and/or SWP that would not constitute either "particular matters of general applicability" or "particular matters involving specific parties," the DEO notes that case-by-case factual analysis and ethics review will be required in many, if not most, circumstances in order to determine the appropriate categorization of issues, decisions, and/or actions undertaken at the DOI with respect to the CVP and the SWP. The DEO is available to provide further ethics guidance on this and other issues upon request.

LEGAL ADVISORY

TO: Designated Agency Ethics Officials

FROM: David J. Apol
General Counsel

SUBJECT: Guidance on Executive Order 13770

Executive Order 13770 rescinds Executive Order 13490 and requires “appointees” to sign a new ethics pledge comprising several commitments. See E.O. 13770, sec. 1 (Jan. 28, 2017). Last month, the U.S. Office of Government Ethics (OGE) issued Legal Advisory LA-17-02 (Feb. 6, 2017) to provide initial guidance on Executive Order 13770. Subsequently, OGE discussed with the Counsel to the President’s office OGE’s prior guidance on Executive Order 13490 and the meaning of several paragraphs of Executive Order 13770. Based on these discussions, this Legal Advisory identifies the parts of OGE’s issuances on Executive Order 13490 that are applicable to Executive Order 13770 and provides additional guidance.

I. Applicability of Prior Guidance to Executive Order 13770

As previously indicated, OGE’s prior guidance on Executive Order 13490 is applicable to Executive Order 13770 to the extent that it addresses language common to both executive orders. Therefore, all substantive legal interpretations in the following Legal Advisories are applicable to Executive Order 13770: DO-09-005, DO-09-007, DO-09-010, DO-09-014, DO-09-020, DO-10-003, and LA-12-10. The following Legal Advisories remain valid in part, as specified in annotations that now appear in the versions posted on OGE’s website: DO-09-003, DO-09-011, DO-10-004, and LA-16-08. For the convenience of ethics officials and employees, an enclosed table highlights certain language common to both executive orders and references prior guidance that is applicable to Executive Order 13770.

II. Paragraph 7: “Specific Issue Area”

Executive Order 13770 prohibits an appointee from participating in any particular matter on which the appointee lobbied during the two-year period before being appointed or in the “specific issue area” in which that particular matter falls. See E.O. 13770, sec. 1, par. 7; E.O. 13490, sec. 1, par. 3. The Counsel to the President’s office has advised OGE that, as used in Executive Order 13770, the term “specific issue area” means a “particular matter of general applicability,” and OGE has accepted the Administration’s interpretation of this term. Although “specific issue” and “general issue area” are used in the context of the Lobbying Disclosure Act (LDA), the term “specific issue area” is not used in that context. See E.O. 13770, sec. 2; see also

2 U.S.C. §§ 1602, 1603(b)(5), 1604(b)(2). Although the term “specific issue area” appeared in Executive Order 13490, it was not defined in any guidance issued during the eight years in which that executive order remained in effect.

OGE has issued guidance distinguishing two types of particular matters: “particular matters involving specific parties” and “particular matters of general applicability.” See 5 C.F.R. § 2640.102(l)-(m); see also OGE Inf. Adv. Op. 06 x 9 (2006). The latter is broader than the former. Id. This difference in breadth is relevant in determining the scope of the recusal, as illustrated in the following example:

An appointee was a registered lobbyist during the two-year period before she entered government. In that capacity, she lobbied her agency against a proposed regulation focused on a specific industry. Her lobbying was limited to a specific section of the regulation affecting her client. Her recusal obligation as an appointee is not limited to the section of the regulation on which she lobbied, nor is it limited to the application of the regulation to her former client. Instead, she must recuse for two years from development and implementation of the entire regulation, subsequent interpretation of the regulation, and application of the regulation in individual cases.

III. Paragraphs 1 and 3: Post-Government Employment Lobbying Restrictions

The ethics pledge under Executive Order 13770 establishes two post-Government employment lobbying restrictions. The restriction in paragraph 1 of the ethics pledge prohibits a former appointee, for five years after terminating employment with an executive agency, from engaging in lobbying activities “with respect to” that agency. See E.O. 13770, sec. 1, par. 1. The restriction in paragraph 3 of the ethics pledge establishes the same restriction “with respect to” any covered executive branch official or non-career Senior Executive Service appointee for the remainder of the Administration. See id.; E.O. 13770 sec. 1, par. 3; sec. 2(c).

Executive Order 13770 relies partly on the definition of “lobbying activities” in the Lobbying Disclosure Act (LDA). See E.O. 13770, sec. 2(n). The LDA defines that term to include both “lobbying contacts” and behind-the-scenes efforts in support of such contacts. 2 U.S.C. § 1602(7). The LDA’s definition of “lobbying contacts” is limited to certain types of communications and excludes 19 types of communications. 2 U.S.C. § 1602(8). Executive Order 13770 specifically excludes additional types of communications. See E.O. 13770, sec. 2(n).

For purposes of paragraph 1, lobbying activities are deemed to be carried out “with respect to” an agency only to the extent that they involve the following:

- (a) Any oral or written communication to a covered executive branch official of that agency; or

(b) Efforts that are intended, at the time of performance, to support a covered lobbying contact to a covered executive branch official of that agency.

For purposes of paragraph 3, the prohibition on lobbying activities “with respect to” a covered executive branch official or non-career Senior Executive Service appointee extends to non-career Senior Executive Service appointees. Therefore, lobbying activities in paragraph 3 involve the following:

(a) Any oral or written communication to a covered executive branch official or non-career Senior Executive Service appointee;
or

(b) Efforts that are intended, at the time of performance, to support a covered lobbying contact to a covered executive branch official or non-career Senior Executive Service appointee of that agency.

For the convenience of ethics officials and employees, an enclosed table compares the post-Government employment lobbying restrictions in paragraphs 1 and 3.

LEGAL ADVISORY

TO: Designated Agency Ethics Officials
FROM: David J. Apel
General Counsel
SUBJECT: Guidance on Executive Order 13770

Executive Order 13770 rescinds Executive Order 13490 and requires "appointees" to sign a new ethics pledge comprising several commitments. See E.O. 13770, sec. 1 (Jan. 28, 2017). Last month, the U.S. Office of Government Ethics (OGE) issued Legal Advisory LA-17-02 (Feb. 6, 2017) to provide initial guidance on Executive Order 13770. Subsequently, OGE discussed with the Counsel to the President's office OGE's prior guidance on Executive Order 13490 and the meaning of several paragraphs of Executive Order 13770. Based on these discussions, this Legal Advisory identifies the parts of OGE's issuances on Executive Order 13490 that are applicable to Executive Order 13770 and provides additional guidance.

I. Applicability of Prior Guidance to Executive Order 13770

As previously indicated, OGE's prior guidance on Executive Order 13490 is applicable to

What is Covered in LA-17-03? (Past Guidance)

- Elaboration on Guidance in LA-17-02
 - Extent to which past guidance is applicable to EO 13770
 - Extent to which past guidance is NOT applicable or NOT relevant to EO 13770

3

What is Covered in LA-17-03? (New Guidance)

- LA-17-03 also addresses recusal obligations for recent lobbyists (pledge paragraph 7)
- Post-government employment restrictions
 - 5-year restriction under pledge paragraph 1
 - Administration-length restriction under pledge paragraph 3
 - Citations to – but not interpretations of – the Lobbying Disclosure Act (LDA)

4

What is Not Covered in LA-17-03?

- Section 3 of the new Executive Order concerning pledge waivers
- Paragraph 4 concerning post-government restrictions and the Foreign Agents Registration Act of 1938
- Paragraph 8 concerning employment decisions
- The continued applicability of EO 13490

LA-17-03: Guidance on E.O. 13770

SUBJECT: Guidance on Executive Order 13770

Executive Order 13770 rescinds Executive Order 13490 and requires “appointees” to sign a new ethics pledge comprising several commitments. See E.O. 13770, sec. 1 (Jan. 28, 2017). Last month, the U.S. Office of Government Ethics (OGE) issued Legal Advisory LA-17-02 (Feb. 6, 2017) to provide initial guidance on Executive Order 13770. Subsequently, OGE discussed with the Counsel to the President’s office OGE’s prior guidance on Executive Order 13490 and the meaning of several paragraphs of Executive Order 13770. Based on these discussions, this Legal Advisory identifies the parts of OGE’s issuances on Executive Order 13490 that are applicable to Executive Order 13770 and provides additional guidance.

I. Applicability of Prior Guidance to Executive Order 13770

As previously indicated, OGE’s prior guidance on Executive Order 13490 is applicable to Executive Order 13770 to the extent that it addresses language common to both executive orders. Therefore, all substantive legal interpretations in the following Legal Advisories are applicable to Executive Order 13770: DO-09-005, DO-09-007, DO-09-010, DO-09-014, DO-09-020, DO-10-003, and LA-12-10. The following Legal Advisories remain valid in part, as specified in annotations that now appear in the versions posted on OGE’s website: DO-09-003, DO-09-011, DO-10-004, and LA-16-08. For the convenience of ethics officials and employees, an enclosed table highlights certain language common to both executive orders and references prior guidance that is applicable to Executive Order 13770.

II. Paragraph 7: “Specific Issue Area”

Executive Order 13770 prohibits an appointee from participating in any particular matter on which the appointee lobbied during the two-year period before being appointed or in the “specific issue area” in which that particular matter falls. See E.O. 13770, sec. 1, par. 7, E.O. 13490, sec. 1, par. 3. The Counsel to the President’s office has advised OGE that, as used in Executive Order 13770, the term “specific issue area” means a “particular matter of general applicability,” and OGE has accepted the Administration’s interpretation of this term. Although “specific issue” and “general issue area” are used in the context of the Lobbying Disclosure Act

Addendum (March 20, 2017) DO-10-004: Post-Employment Under the Ethics Pledge: FAQs

The following substantive legal interpretations in this advisory are applicable to Executive Order 13770:

- Part A: Post-employment cooling-off period. See E.O. 13770, sec. 1, par. 2.
 - Q2: Which appointees are subject to the restriction
 - Q3: How the restriction affects very senior employees
 - Q4: Which officials may not be contacted under this restriction
 - Q5: Applicability of exceptions under 18 U.S.C. § 207(c) to the restriction
- Part B: Post-employment lobbying ban. See E.O. 13770, sec. 1, par. 3.
 - Q1: Relationship of the lobbying ban to other restrictions
 - Q2: Whether the lobbying ban applies to appointees who are not senior employees
 - Q5: Duration of the lobbying ban
 - Q11: Whether exceptions to the restriction exist

The following substantive legal interpretations in this advisory are applicable in part to Executive Order 13770, to the extent that they address the core questions listed below. However, because the post-employment ban in Executive Order 13490 restricts "lobbying," while the corresponding ban in Executive Order 13770 restricts "lobbying activities," the substantive legal interpretations of

MEMORANDUM

TO: Designated Agency Ethics Officials

FROM: Robert I. Cusick
Director

SUBJECT: Ethics Pledge: Revolving Door Ban--All Appointees Entering Government

Executive Order 13490 requires any covered "appointee" to sign an Ethics Pledge that includes several commitments. 74 Fed. Reg. 4673 (January 26, 2009). OGE Memorandum DO-09-003 explains the definition of appointee, describes the commitments included in the Pledge, and provides a Pledge Form to be used for appointees.¹ The purpose of the present memorandum is to advise ethics officials on how to implement paragraph 2 of the Pledge, "Revolving Door Ban--All Appointees Entering Government."

Paragraph 2 of the Pledge requires an appointee to commit that he or she will not, for a period of two years following appointment, participate in any particular matter involving specific parties that is directly and substantially related to his or her former employer or former clients, including regulations and contracts. Exec. Order No. 13490 sec. 1(2). To help agencies implement this requirement, OGE is providing the following explanation of the phrases that comprise paragraph 2 of the Pledge and of how paragraph 2 interacts with existing impartiality regulations.

Understanding the Meaning of the Terms that Comprise Paragraph 2 of the Pledge

"Particular matter involving specific parties"

In order to determine whether an appointee's activities concern any particular matters involving specific parties, ethics officials must follow the definition of that phrase found in section 2(h) of the Executive Order. That definition incorporates the longstanding interpretation of particular matter involving specific parties reflected in 5 C.F.R. § 2641.201(h). However, it also expands the scope of the term to include any meeting or other communication with a former employer or former client relating to the performance of the appointee's official duties, unless the communication applies to a particular matter of general applicability and participation in the meeting or other event is open to all interested parties. The purpose of this expansion of the traditional definition is to address concerns that former employers and clients may appear to have privileged access, which they may exploit to influence an appointee out of the public view.²

The expanded party matter definition has a two-part exception for communications with an appointee's former employer or client, if the communication is: (1) about a particular matter of general applicability and (2) is made at a meeting or other event at which participation is open to all interested parties. Although the exception refers to particular matters of general applicability, it also is intended to cover communications and meetings regarding policies that do not constitute particular matters. An appointee may participate in communications and meetings with a former employer or client about these particular or non-particular matters if the meeting or event is "open to all interested parties." Exec. Order No. 13490 sec. 2(h). Because meeting spaces are typically limited, and time and other practical considerations also may constrain the size of meetings, common sense demands that reasonable limits be placed on what it means to be "open to all interested parties." Such meetings do not have to be open to every comer, but should include a multiplicity of parties. For example, if an agency is holding a meeting with five or more stakeholders regarding a given policy or piece of legislation, an appointee could attend such a meeting even if one of the stakeholders is a former employer or former client; such circumstances do not raise the concerns about special access at which the Executive Order is directed. Additionally, the Pledge is not intended to preclude an appointee from participating in rulemaking under section 553 of the Administrative Procedure Act simply because a former employer or client may have submitted written comments in response to a public notice of proposed rulemaking.³ In any event, agency ethics officials will have to exercise judgment in determining whether a specific forum qualifies as a meeting or other event that is "open to all interested parties," and OGE is prepared to assist with this analysis.

"Particular matter involving specific parties...including regulations"

Because regulations often are cited as examples of particular matters that do not involve specific parties, OGE wants to emphasize that the phrase is not intended to suggest that all rulemakings are covered. Rather, the phrase is intended to serve as a reminder that regulations sometimes may be particular matters involving specific parties, although in rare circumstances. As OGE has observed in connection with 18 U.S.C. § 207, certain rulemakings may be so focused on the rights of specifically identified parties as to be considered a particular matter

² Note, however, that the expanded definition of party matter is not intended to interfere with the ability of appointees to consult with experts at educational institutions and "think tanks" on general policy matters, at least where those entities do not have a financial interest, as opposed to an academic or ideological interest. See Office of Legal Counsel Memorandum, "Financial Interests of Nonprofit Organizations," January 11, 2006 (distinguishing between financial interests and advocacy interests of nonprofits); <http://www.justice.gov/sites/default/files/olc/opinions/attachments/2015/05/29/op-olc-v030-p0064.pdf>; cf. 5 C.F.R. § 2635.502(b)(1)(v)(Note)(OGE impartiality rule does not require recusal because of employee's political, religious or moral views).

³ For other reasons discussed below, however, rulemaking sometimes may constitute a particular matter involving specific parties, albeit rarely involving specific parties.⁴ Such rulemakings likewise are covered by paragraph 2.

"Directly and substantially related to"

The phrase "directly and substantially related to," as defined in section 2(k) of the Executive Order, means only that the former employer or client is a party or represents a party to the matter. Ethics officials should be familiar with this concept from 5 C.F.R. § 2635.502(a).

"Former employer or former client"

In order to determine who qualifies as an appointee's former employer or former client, ethics officials must follow the definitions of each phrase found in section 2(i) and 2(j), respectively, of the Executive Order. In effect, the Executive Order splits the treatment of former employer found in the impartiality regulations into two discrete categories, "former employer" and "former client," and removes contractor from the definition of either term. See 5 C.F.R. §§ 2635.502(b)(1)(iv), 2635.503(b)(2).

Former Employer

For purposes of the Pledge, a former employer is any person for whom the appointee has, within the two years prior to the date of his or her appointment, served as an employee, officer, director, trustee, or general partner, unless that person is an agency or entity of the Federal Government, a state or local government, the District of Columbia, a Native American tribe, or any United States territory or possession. Exec. Order No. 13490, sec. 2(i). While the terms employee, officer, director, trustee, or general partner generally follow existing ethics laws and guidance, OGE has received questions about the scope of the exclusion for government entities from the definition of former employer, specifically with regard to public colleges and universities. The exclusion for state or local government entities does extend to a state or local college or university.⁵

OGE also has received several questions about whether the definition of former employer includes nonprofit organizations. Consistent with the interpretation of similar terms in other ethics rules and statutes, the definition of former employer in the Executive Order covers

⁴ See, e.g., 73 Fed. Reg. 36168, 36176 (June 25, 2008); see also OGE Informal Advisory Letter 96 x 7, n.1.

⁵ See OGE Informal Advisory Opinion 93 x 29 n.1 where OGE held that for purposes of applying the supplementation of salary restrictions in 18 U.S.C. § 209, the exception for payments from the treasury of any state, county, or municipality included a state university. OGE cautions, however, that the exclusion for state and local entities may not extend to all entities affiliated with a state or local college or university. OGE notes that some colleges and universities may create mixed public/private entities in partnership with commercial enterprises. Such entities should not automatically be considered as falling within the exclusion, but rather should be examined on a case-by-case basis to determine whether they should be viewed as instrumentalities of state or local government for the purposes of the Executive Order.

nonprofit organizations.⁶ Moreover, it includes nonprofit organizations in which an appointee served without compensation, provided of course that the appointee actually served as an employee, officer, director, trustee, or general partner of the organization. Thus, for example, the recusal obligations of Pledge paragraph 2 would apply to an appointee who had served without pay on the board of directors or trustees of a charity, provided that the position involved the fiduciary duties normally associated with directors and trustees under state nonprofit organization law. This does not include, however, purely honorific positions, such as "honorary trustee" of a nonprofit organization. It also does not include unpaid positions as a member of an advisory board or committee of a nonprofit organization, unless the position involved fiduciary duties of the kind exercised by officers, directors or trustees, or involved sufficient supervision by the organization to create a common law employee-employer relationship (which is not typical, in OGE's experience).

Former Client

For purposes of the Pledge, a former client means any person for whom the appointee served personally as an agent, attorney, or consultant within two years prior to date of appointment. Exec. Order No. 13490 sec. 2(j). A former client does not include a client of the appointee's former employer to whom the appointee did not personally provide services. Therefore, although an appointee's former law firm provided legal services to a corporation, the corporation is not a former client of the appointee for purposes of the Pledge if the appointee did not personally render legal services to the corporation. Moreover, based on discussions with the White House Counsel's office, OGE has determined that the definition of former client is intended to exclude the same governmental entities as those excluded from the definition of former employer. Thus, for example, an appointee who had provided legal services to the Department of Energy would not be prohibited from participating personally in particular matters in which the Department is a party.

In addition, the term former client includes nonprofit organizations. However, a former client relationship is not created by service to a nonprofit organization in which an appointee participated solely as an unpaid advisory committee or advisory board member with no fiduciary duties. Although a former client includes any person whom the appointee served as a "consultant," OGE has not construed the term consultant, as used in analogous provisions of the Ethics in Government Act and the Standards of Ethical Conduct, to include unpaid, non-fiduciary advisory committee members of a nonprofit organization. See 5 U.S.C. app. § 102(a)(6)(A)(disclosure of consultant positions); 5 C.F.R. § 2635.502(b)(1)(iv)(covered relationship as former consultant). Likewise, former client does not include a nonprofit organization in which an appointee served solely in an honorific capacity.

⁶ For similar reasons, Federally-funded research and development centers (FFRDCs), whether nonprofit or for profit, are intended to be included in the definitions of former employer and former client for purposes of paragraph 2 of the Pledge.

The definition of former client specifically excludes “instances where the service provided was limited to a speech or similar appearance.” Exec. Order No. 13490, sec. 2(j). In addition to excluding all activities that consist merely of speaking engagements, this provision is intended to exclude other kinds of discrete, short-term engagements, including certain de minimis consulting activities. Essentially, the Pledge is not intended to require a two-year recusal based on activities so insubstantial that they are not likely to engender the kind of lingering affinity and mixed loyalties at which the Executive Order is directed. The exclusion for speaking and similar engagements was added to emphasize that the provision focuses on services that involved a significant working relationship with a former client. Therefore, the exclusion is not limited to speeches and speech-like activities (such as serving on a seminar panel or discussion forum), but includes other activities that similarly involve a brief, one-time service with little or no ongoing attachment or obligation. In order to determine whether any services were de minimis, ethics officials will need to consider the totality of the circumstances, including the following factors:

- the amount of time devoted;
- the presence or absence of an ongoing contractual relationship or agreement;
- the nature of the services (e.g., whether they involved any representational services or other fiduciary duties); and
- the nature of compensation (e.g., one-time fee versus a retainer fee).

For example, the recusal obligation of Pledge paragraph 2 would not apply to an appointee who had provided consulting services on a technical or scientific issue, for three hours on a single day, pursuant to an informal oral agreement, with no representational or fiduciary relationship.⁷ On the other hand, an appointee who had an ongoing contractual relationship to provide similar services as needed over the course of several months would be covered. In closer cases, OGE believes ethics officials should err on the side of coverage, with the understanding that waivers, under section 3 of the Order, remain an option in appropriate cases.

The Relationship of Paragraph 2 of the Pledge to the Existing Impartiality Regulations

Paragraph 2 of the Pledge is not merely an extension of the existing impartiality requirements of subpart E of the Standards of Ethical Conduct, although in some circumstances the restrictions of the Pledge and the existing impartiality restrictions could align. The effect of any overlap is that all of the relevant restrictions apply to the appointee and should be acknowledged in the appointee’s ethics agreement and considered when granting a waiver or authorization under either set of restrictions.

⁷ Note that appointees still will have a covered relationship for one year after they provided any consulting services, under the OGE impartiality rule, 5 C.F.R. § 2635.502(b)(1)(iv). Therefore, the OGE rule may require an appointee to recuse from certain matters (or obtain an authorization, as appropriate), even if the Pledge does not extend the recusal for an additional year. Indeed, the presence of the OGE rule as a “fall-back” was a factor in the decision to exclude certain de minimis consulting services from the Pledge in the first place.

Paragraph 2 of the Pledge and Impartiality Regulations Differ and Overlap

An appointee's commitments under paragraph 2 of the Pledge both overlap and diverge from the existing impartiality regulations in important ways depending upon the facts of each appointee's circumstances. The following highlights some of the key areas in which paragraph 2 of the Pledge and the existing impartiality restrictions differ. In addition, OGE has developed a chart as a quick reference tool to identify the key differences among the existing impartiality regulations and paragraph 2 of the Pledge. See Attachment 1.

Paragraph 2 of the Pledge is at once more expansive and more limited than the existing impartiality restrictions found at 5 C.F.R. §§ 2635.502, 2635.503. For example, an appointee is subject to impartiality restrictions based on his covered relationships with a much broader array of persons⁸ than to the restrictions of paragraph 2, which are limited to the appointee's former employer and former clients. Thus, for instance, if the appointee has served as a contractor, but not in any of the roles described in the definitions of former employer or former client in the Executive Order, then the appointee may have recusal obligations under 5 C.F.R. §§ 2635.502 and 2635.503, but not under Pledge paragraph 2. Conversely, Pledge paragraph 2 is more expansive than the definition of covered relationship in section 2635.502 because the Pledge provision looks back two years to define a former employer or former client and it imposes a two-year recusal obligation after appointment, both of which are considerably broader than the one-year focus of section 2635.502(b)(1)(iv). Pledge paragraph 2 also is more expansive in that the recusal obligation may apply to certain communications and meetings that do not constitute particular matters involving specific parties as that phrase is used in sections 2635.502 and 2635.503.⁹

On the subject of recusal periods alone, ethics officials will need to be especially attentive to the possible variations, as it may be possible for as many as three periods to overlap. For example, an appointee could have: a one-year recusal, under 5 C.F.R. § 2635.502, from the date she last served a former employer; a two-year recusal, under section 2635.503, from the date she received an extraordinary payment from that same former employer; and a two-year recusal with respect to that former employer, under Pledge paragraph 2, from the date of her appointment.

Specific Recusals under Paragraph 2 of the Pledge are Not Required to be Memorialized in an Appointee's Ethics Agreement.

Executive Order 13490 does not require recusals under paragraph 2 of the Pledge to be addressed specifically in an appointee's ethics agreement, unlike recusals under paragraph 3 of the Pledge. See Exec. Order No. 13490 sec. 4(a).¹⁰ However, if an appointee will have a written ethics agreement addressing other commitments, OGE requires that the following language be inserted in that written ethics agreement in order to ensure that the appointee is aware of her commitments and restrictions under both her ethics agreement and the Pledge.

⁸ See definition of "covered relationship" at 5 C.F.R. § 2635.502(b)(1).

⁹ Compare Exec. Order No. 13490, sec. 2(h)(definition broader than post-employment regulation); with 5 C.F.R. § 2635.502(b)(3)(defining particular matter involving specific parties solely by reference to post-employment regulations).

Finally, I understand that as an appointee I am required to sign the Ethics Pledge (Exec. Order No. 13490) and that I will be bound by the requirements and restrictions therein in addition to the commitments I have made in this and any other ethics agreement.

Written ethics agreements will continue to address section 2635.502 and 2635.503 issues separately using the model provisions from OGE's "Guide to Drafting Ethics Agreements for PAS Nominees." Thus, regardless of paragraph 2 of the Pledge, the one-year "covered relationship" under the OGE impartiality rule remains in effect and may require an appointee to recuse from certain matters, even if the Pledge does not extend the recusal for an additional year. See 5 C.F.R. § 2635.502(b)(1)(iv).

The Pledge and Impartiality Regulations Waiver Provisions

Designated Agency Ethics Officials have been designated to exercise the waiver authority for the Ethics Pledge, under section 3 of Executive Order 13490, in addition to their existing role in the issuance of impartiality waivers and authorizations. DAEOgram DO-09-008; 5 C.F.R. §§ 2635.502(d), 2635.503(c). Generally, it is expected that waivers of the various requirements of the Pledge will be granted sparingly. See OGE DAEOgram DO-09-008. Although paragraph 2 clearly adds new limits on the revolving door, those limits are not intended to bar the use of qualified appointees who have relevant private sector experience in their fields of expertise. Therefore, at least where the lobbyist restrictions of paragraph 3 of the Pledge are not implicated, OGE expects that DAEOs will exercise the waiver authority for paragraph 2 in a manner that reasonably meets the needs of their agencies. In this regard, DAEOs already have significant experience in determining whether authorizations under 5 C.F.R. § 2635.502(d) are justified, and DAEOs should use similar good judgment in decisions about whether to waive paragraph 2 of the Pledge. Of course, any such waiver decisions still must be made in consultation with the Counsel to the President. Exec. Order No. 13490, sec. 3. Additional details on the standards for issuing a waiver of provisions of Pledge paragraph 2, as well as on issues related to the interaction of the waiver provisions of the impartiality regulations and relevant paragraphs of the Pledge, are reserved for future guidance.

¹⁰ An ethics agreement is defined as "any oral or written promise by a reporting individual to undertake specific actions in order to alleviate an actual or apparent conflict of interest," such as recusal from participation in a particular matter, divestiture of a financial interest, resignation from a position, or procurement of a waiver. 5 C.F.R. § 2634.802.

Letter to a Designated Agency Ethics Official dated February 10, 2005

This is in response to your letter of February 9, 2005, in which you inquire whether the deliberations of the President's Advisory Panel on Federal Tax Reform would constitute particular matters for purposes of 18 U.S.C. § 208. The first meeting of the Panel is scheduled for February 16, and the need for a prompt resolution of the question is apparent. Your letter follows up on earlier telephone conversations in which my Office advised that the proposed work of the Panel, as described to us, did not constitute a particular matter or particular matters within the meaning of the conflict of interest statute. We continue to be of the same view.

Pursuant to Executive Order 13369 (January 7, 2005), the Panel is charged with producing a single report that will address a range of "revenue neutral policy options" for legislative reform of the Federal tax system. The contemplated scope of the report is quite broad, as indicated by the three guiding principles in the Executive order: the options should "(a) simplify Federal tax laws to reduce the costs and administrative burdens of compliance with such laws; (b) share burdens and benefits of the Federal tax structure in an appropriately progressive manner while recognizing the importance of homeownership and charity in American society; and (c) promote long-run economic growth and job creation, and better encourage work effort, saving, and investment, so as to strengthen the competitiveness of the United States in the global marketplace." Executive Order, § 3. The Executive order only prescribes that "at least one option submitted by the Advisory Panel should use the Federal income tax as the base for its recommended reforms." Id. Consistent with this broad mandate, your letter indicates that Panel deliberations are expected "to focus on a wide range of tax matters--including both matters that have the potential to affect all taxpayers (e.g., the alternative minimum tax and the compliance burdens for large, small and individual taxpayers) as well as matters that specifically and uniquely affect taxpayers comprised of industry sectors (e.g., depletion allowance for the oil and gas industries)."

As you know, section 208(a) prohibits employees from participating personally and substantially in any "particular matter" in which they have a personal or imputed financial interest. Under the interpretive regulations issued by the Office of Government Ethics, "[t]he term 'particular matter' includes only matters that involve deliberation, decision, or action that is focused upon the interests of specific persons, or a discrete and identifiable class of persons." 5 C.F.R. § 2640.103(a)(1). The phrase generally is understood to include matters of general applicability that are narrowly focused on the interests of a discrete industry, such as the meat packing industry or the trucking industry. E.g., 5 C.F.R. § 2640.103(a)(1) (example 3); 5 C.F.R. § 2635.402(b)(3) (example 2). However, the term does not extend to the "consideration or adoption of broad policy options directed to the interests of a large and diverse group of persons." § 2640.103(a)(1).

The work of the Panel, as described above, fits comfortably within the latter exclusion for consideration of broad policy options directed to the interests of a large and diverse group of persons. Indeed, the Panel's report is expected to address issues affecting every taxpayer in the United States. In this regard, the matter is analogous to example 8 following section 2640.103(a)(1), in which the consideration of a legislative proposal for broad health care reform is held not to be a particular matter because it is intended to affect every person in the United States. However, your letter refers to the preamble discussion of this example in the final rule and indicates that it suggests that the larger legislative proposal may be broken down into different constituent parts that might be viewed as separate particular matters in their own right. 61 Fed. Reg. 66830, 66832 (December 18, 1996). You note that some of the many tax policy options to be considered by the Panel will focus more narrowly on discrete industries and question whether the language in the preamble means that the consideration of these options should be treated as separate particular matters, apart from the overall report.

It was not OGE's intention that example 8 and the preamble should be read as requiring that broad legislative proposals of this type be fractionated into separate provisions or issues for purposes of identifying particular matters. Such an approach would prove little, since the consideration of most matters of broad public policy can be carved up into successively finer and more focused parts: after all, much of policymaking inevitably involves the consideration of how different aspects of an overall proposal will affect different constituencies in a pluralistic democracy. Nor do we think it would be workable to employ a variation of what one court has criticized as an "elastic approach" to identifying particular matters, which is contingent on the part of the overall matter in which the particular individual happened to be involved. Van Ee v. EPA, 202 F.3d 296, 309 (D.C. Cir. 2000).¹ It would not be logical to conclude that an employee could participate in considering the overall legislative proposal but not its constituent parts.

In any event, the text of example 8 does not state that work on the broad health care proposal must be divided up into separate particular matters. It simply indicates that "consideration and implementation, through regulations, of a section of the health care bill" that limits prices for prescription drugs would be a particular matter that is focused on the pharmaceutical industry. § 2640.103(a)(1) (example 8) (emphasis added); see also 60 Fed. Reg. 47208, 47210 (September 11, 1995) (preamble to proposed rule) (broad policy matters may later become particular matters when implemented in a way that distinctly affects specific persons or groups of persons). At most, the preamble language indicates only that there may be other conceivable situations where a narrowly focused provision in a larger legislative proposal should not be viewed as merely an integral part of the broader policy deliberations. Although OGE has not had occasion to render any opinions on such situations, an example might be (depending on the facts) a private relief bill that becomes attached to a larger legislative vehicle focused on an unrelated subject.

Apart from example 8, the OGE regulations contain another example that appears to be almost indistinguishable from the work of the Panel. Example 5 following section 2640.103(a)(1) states that "deliberations on the general merits of an omnibus bill such as the Tax Reform Act of 1986 are not sufficiently focused on the interests of specific persons, or a discrete and identifiable group of persons to constitute participation in a particular matter." As my Office explained in our earlier telephone conversations, the Tax Reform Act of 1986 itself contained numerous provisions, which, if considered alone, might have constituted separate particular matters, such as specific tax provisions for the oil, gas and pharmaceutical industries. See Pub. L. 99-514, October 22, 1986. However, the inclusion of such topics simply as components of a much more global tax reform proposal meant that the Tax Reform Act, like the comprehensive tax reform deliberations of the new Panel, must be viewed as too broadly focused to be considered a particular matter.

If you have any further questions about this matter, feel free to contact my Office.

Sincerely,

Marilyn L. Glynn

MEMORANDUM

TO: Designated Agency Ethics Officials

FROM: Robert I. Cusick
Director

SUBJECT: "Particular Matter Involving Specific Parties," "Particular Matter," and "Matter"

Perhaps no subject has generated as many questions from ethics officials over the years as the difference between the phrases "particular matter involving specific parties" and "particular matter." These phrases are used in the various criminal conflict of interest statutes to describe the kinds of Government actions to which certain restrictions apply. Moreover, because these phrases are terms of art with established meanings, the Office of Government Ethics (OGE) has found it useful to include these same terms in various ethics rules. A third term, "matter," also has taken on importance in recent years because certain criminal post-employment restrictions now use that term without the modifiers "particular" or "involving specific parties."

It is crucial that ethics officials understand the differences among these three phrases. OGE's experience has been that confusion and disputes can arise when these terms are used in imprecise ways in ethics agreements, conflict of interest waivers, and oral or written ethics advice. Therefore, we are issuing this memorandum to provide guidance in a single document about the meaning of these terms and the distinctions among them.

Because the three phrases are distinguished mainly in terms of their relative breadth, the discussion below will proceed from the narrowest phrase to the broadest.

Particular Matter Involving Specific Parties

The narrowest of these terms is "particular matter involving specific parties." Depending on the grammar and structure of the particular statute or regulation, the wording may appear in slightly different forms, but the meaning remains the same, focusing primarily on the presence of specific parties.

1. Where the Phrase Appears

This language is used in many places in the conflict of interest laws and OGE regulations. In the post-employment statute, the phrase "particular matter . . . which involved a specific party or parties" is used to describe the kinds of Government matters to which the life-time and two-year representational bans apply. 18 U.S.C. § 207(a)(1), (a)(2). Occasionally, ethics officials have raised questions because section 207 includes a definition of the term "particular matter," section 207(i)(3), but not "particular matter involving specific parties"; however, it is important to remember that each time "particular matter" is used in section 207(a), it is modified by the additional "specific party" language.¹

In addition to section 207(a), similar language is used in 18 U.S.C. §§ 205(c) and 203(c). These provisions describe the limited restrictions on representational activities applicable to special Government employees (SGEs) during their periods of Government service.²

² These restrictions on SGEs are discussed in more detail in OGE DAEOgram DO-00-003, at <https://www.oge.gov/Web/oge.nsf/Resources/DO-00-003:+Summary+of+Ethical+Requirements+Applicable+to+Special+Government+Employees>.

As explained below, 18 U.S.C. § 208 generally uses the broader phrase "particular matter" to describe the matters from which employees must recuse themselves because of a financial interest. However, even this statute has one provision, dealing with certain Indian birthright interests, that refers to particular matters involving certain Indian entities as "a specific party or parties." 18 U.S.C. § 208(b)(4); see OGE Informal Advisory Letter 00 x 12. Moreover, OGE has issued certain regulatory exemptions, under section 208(b)(2), that refer to particular matters involving specific parties. 5 C.F.R. § 2640.202(a), (b). Likewise, the distinction between particular matters involving specific parties and broader types of particular matters (i.e., those that have general applicability to an entire class of persons) is crucial to several other regulatory exemptions issued by OGE under section 208(b)(2). 5 C.F.R. §§ 2640.201(c)(2), (d); 2640.202(c); 2640.203(b), (g).

Finally, OGE has used similar language in various other rules. Most notably, the provisions dealing with impartiality and extraordinary payments in subpart E of the Standards of Ethical Conduct for Employees of the Executive Branch (Standards of Conduct) refer to particular matters in which certain persons are specific parties. 5 C.F.R. §§ 2635.502; 2635.503. OGE also uses the phrase to describe a restriction on the compensated speaking, teaching and writing activities of certain SGEs. 5 C.F.R. § 2635.807(a)(2)(i)(4).

2. What the Phrase Means

When this language is used, it reflects "a deliberate effort to impose a more limited ban and to narrow the circumstances in which the ban is to operate." Bayless Manning, Federal Conflict of Interest Law 204 (1964). Therefore, OGE has emphasized that the term "typically involves a specific proceeding affecting the legal rights of the parties, or an isolatable transaction or related set of transactions between identified parties." 5 C.F.R. § 2640.102(1).³ Examples of particular matters involving specific parties include contracts, grants, licenses, product approval applications, investigations, and litigation. It is important to remember that the phrase does not cover particular matters of general applicability, such as rulemaking, legislation, or policy-making of general applicability.⁴

Ethics officials sometimes must decide when a particular matter first involves a specific party. Many Government matters evolve, sometimes starting with a broad concept, developing into a discrete program, and eventually involving specific parties. A case-by-case analysis is required to determine at which stage a particular matter has sufficiently progressed to involve specific parties. The Government sometimes identifies a specific party even at a preliminary or informal stage in the development of a matter. E.g., OGE Informal Advisory Letters 99 x 23; 99 x 21; 90 x 3.

³ This definition, found in OGE's regulations implementing 18 U.S.C. § 208, differs slightly from the definition found in the regulations implementing a now-superseded version of 18 U.S.C. § 207, although this is more a point of clarification than substance. Specifically, the old section 207 regulations referred to "identifiable" parties, 5 C.F.R. § 2637.201(c)(1), whereas the more recent section 208 rule refers to "identified" parties. As explained in the preamble to OGE's proposed new section 207 rule: "The use of 'identified,' rather than 'identifiable,' is intended to distinguish more clearly between particular matters involving specific parties and mere 'particular matters,' which are described elsewhere as including matters of general applicability that focus 'on the interests of a discrete and identifiable class of persons' but do not involve specific parties. [citations omitted] The use of the term 'identified,' however, does not mean that a matter will lack specific parties just because the name of a party is not disclosed to the Government, as where an agent represents an unnamed principal." 68 Federal Register 7844, 7853-54 (February 18, 2003).

In matters involving contracts, grants and other agreements between the Government and outside parties, the general rule is that specific parties are first identified when the Government first receives an expression of interest from a prospective contractor, grantee or other party. As OGE explained recently in Informal Advisory Letter 05 x 6, the Government sometimes may receive expressions of interest from prospective bidders or applicants in advance of a published solicitation or request for proposals. In some cases, such matters may involve specific parties even before the Government receives an expression of interest, if there are sufficient indications that the Government actually has identified a party. See OGE Informal Advisory Letter 96 x 21.

Particular Matter

Despite the similarity of the phrases "particular matter" and "particular matter involving specific parties," it is necessary to distinguish them. That is because "particular matter" covers a broader range of Government activities than "particular matter involving specific parties." Failure to appreciate this distinction can lead to inadvertent violations of law. For example, the financial conflict of interest statute, 18 U.S.C. § 208, generally refers to particular matters, without the specific party limitation. If an employee is advised incorrectly that section 208 applies only to particular matters that focus on a specific person or company, such as an enforcement action or a contract, then the employee may conclude it is permissible to participate in other particular matters, even though the law prohibits such participation.

In addition to 18 U.S.C. § 208, several other statutes and regulations use the term "particular matter."⁵ The representational restrictions applicable to current employees (other than SGEs), under 18 U.S.C. §§ 203 and 205, apply to particular matters.⁶ As mentioned above, section 207 also contains a definition of "particular matter."⁷ However, where the phrase is used in the post-employment prohibitions in

⁵ The relevant language in 18 U.S.C. § 208(a) is "a judicial or other proceeding, application, request for a ruling or other determination, contract, claim, controversy, charge, accusation, arrest, or other particular matter" (emphasis added).

⁶ The prohibition in 18 U.S.C. § 205(a)(2) actually uses the phrase "covered matter," but that term is in turn defined as "any judicial or other proceeding, application, request for a ruling or other determination, contract, claim, controversy, investigation, charge, accusation, arrest or other particular matter," 18 U.S.C. § 205(h) (emphasis added).

⁷ The definition in 18 U.S.C. § 207(i)(3) provides: "the term 'particular matter' includes any investigation, application, request for a ruling or determination, rulemaking, contract, controversy, claim, charge, accusation, arrest, or judicial or other proceeding." This language differs slightly from other references to "particular matter" in sections 203, 205 and 208, in part because the list of matters is not followed by the residual phrase "or other particular matter." However, OGE does not believe that the absence of such a general catch-all phrase means that the list of enumerated matters exhausts the meaning of "particular matter" under section 207(i)(3). The list is preceded by the word "includes," which is generally a term of enlargement rather than limitation and indicates that matters other than those enumerated are covered. See Norman J. Singer, 2A Sutherland on Statutory Construction 231-232 (2000).

section 207(a)(1) and (a)(2), it is modified by the "specific parties" limitation.⁸

The phrase "particular matter" is used pervasively in OGE's regulations. Of course, the term appears throughout 5 C.F.R. part 2640, the primary OGE rule interpreting and implementing 18 U.S.C. § 208. Similarly, it is used in 5 C.F.R. § 2635.402, which is the provision in the Standards of Conduct that generally deals with section 208. The phrase also is used throughout subpart F of the Standards of Conduct, which contains the rules governing recusal from particular matters affecting the financial interest of a person with whom an employee is seeking non-Federal employment. 5 C.F.R. §§ 2635.601-2635.606. Moreover, the phrase appears in the "catch-all" provision of OGE's impartiality rule, 5 C.F.R. § 2635.502(a)(2). See also 5 C.F.R. 2635.501(a).⁹ Various other regulations refer to "particular matter" for miscellaneous purposes. E.g., 5 C.F.R. § 2635.805(a) (restriction on expert witness activities of SGEs); 5 C.F.R. § 2634.802(a)(1) (written rec usals pursuant to ethics agreements).

2. What the Phrase Means

Although different conflict of interest statutes use slightly different wording, such as different lists of examples of particular matters, the same standards apply for determining what is a particular matter under each of the relevant statutes and regulations. See 18 Op. O.L.C. 212, 217-20 (1994). Particular matter means any matter that involves "deliberation, decision, or action that is focused upon the interests of specific persons, or a discrete and identifiable class of persons." 5 C.F.R. § 2640.103(a)(1) (emphasis added). It is clear, then, that particular matter may include matters that do not involve parties and is not "limited to adversarial proceedings or formal legal relationships." Van Ee v. EPA, 202 F.3d 296, 302 (D.C. Cir. 2000).

⁸ At one time, the post-employment "cooling-off" restriction for senior employees in 18 U.S.C. § 207(c) applied to particular matters, but the language was amended (and broadened) in 1989 when Congress removed the adjective "particular" that had modified "matter." See 17 Op. O.L.C. 37, 41-42 (1993).

Essentially, the term covers two categories of matters: (1) those that involve specific parties (described more fully above), and (2) those that do not involve specific parties but at least focus on the interests of a discrete and identifiable class of persons, such as a particular industry or profession. OGE regulations sometimes refer to the second category as "particular matter of general applicability." 5 C.F.R. § 2640.102(m). This category can include legislation and policymaking, as long as it is narrowly focused on a discrete and identifiable class. Examples provided in OGE rules include a regulation applicable only to meat packing companies or a regulation prescribing safety standards for trucks on interstate highways. 5 C.F.R. §§ 2640.103(a)(1) (example 3); 2635.402(b)(3) (example 2). Other examples may be found in various opinions of OGE and the Office of Legal Counsel, Department of Justice. E.g., OGE Informal Advisory Letter 00 x 4 (recommendations concerning specific limits on commercial use of a particular facility); 18 Op. O.L.C. at 220 (determinations or legislation focused on the compensation and work conditions of the class of Assistant United States Attorneys).

Certain OGE rules recognize that particular matters of general applicability sometimes may raise fewer conflict of interest concerns than particular matters involving specific parties.¹⁰ Therefore, while both categories are included in the term "particular matter," it is often necessary to distinguish between these two kinds of particular matters. Of course, in many instances, the relevant prohibitions apply equally to both kinds of particular matters. This is the case, for example, in any application of 18 U.S.C. § 208 where there is no applicable exemption or waiver that distinguishes the two.

It is important to emphasize that the term "particular matter" is not so broad as to include every matter involving Government action. Particular matter does not cover the "consideration or adoption of broad policy options directed to the interests of a large and diverse group of persons." 5 C.F.R. § 2640.103(a)(1). For example, health and safety regulations applicable to all employers would not be a particular matter, nor would a comprehensive legislative proposal for health care reform. 5 C.F.R. § 2640.103(a)(1) (example 4), (example 8). See also OGE Informal Advisory Letter 05 x 1 (report of panel on tax reform addressing broad range of tax policy issues). Although such actions are too broadly focused to be particular matters, they still are deemed "matters" for purposes of the restrictions described below that use that term.

¹⁰ As noted above, OGE's impartiality rule generally focuses on particular matters involving specific parties. See OGE Informal Advisory Letter 93 x 25 (rulemaking "would not, except in unusual circumstances covered under section 502(a)(2), raise an issue under section 502(a)"). Furthermore, as also discussed above, several of the regulatory exemptions issued by OGE under 18 U.S.C. § 208(b)(2) treat particular matters of general applicability differently than those involving specific parties. The preamble to the original proposed regulatory exemptions in 5 C.F.R. part 2640 explains: "The regulation generally contains more expansive exemptions for participation in 'matters of general applicability not involving specific parties' because it is less likely that an employee's integrity would be compromised by concern for his own financial interests when participating in these broader matters." 60 Federal Register 47207, 47210 (September 11, 1995). Of course, Congress itself has limited certain conflict of interest restrictions to the core area of particular matters that involve specific parties. E.g., 18 U.S.C. § 207(a)(1), (a)(2).

A question that sometimes arises is when a matter first becomes a "particular matter." Some matters begin as broad policy deliberations and actions pertaining to diverse interests, but, later, more focused actions may follow. Usually, a particular matter arises when the deliberations turn to specific actions that focus on a certain person or a discrete and identifiable class of persons. For example, although a legislative plan for broad health care reform would not be a particular matter, a particular matter would arise if an agency later issued implementing regulations focused narrowly on the prices that pharmaceutical companies could charge for prescription drugs. 5 C.F.R. § 2640.102(a)(1) (example 8). Similarly, the formulation and implementation of the United States response to the military invasion of an ally would not be a particular matter, but a particular matter would arise once discussions turned to whether to close a particular oil pumping station or pipeline operated by a company in the area where hostilities are taking place. 5 C.F.R. § 2640.102(a)(1) (example 7).

Matter

The broadest of the three terms is "matter." However, this term is used less frequently than the other two in the various ethics statutes and regulations to describe the kinds of Government actions to which restrictions apply.

1. Where the Phrase Appears

The most important use of this term is in the one-year post-employment restrictions applicable to "senior employees" and "very senior employees." 18 U.S.C. § 207(c), (d). In this context, "matter" is used to describe the kind of Government actions that former senior and very senior employees are prohibited from influencing through contacts with employees of their former agencies (as well as contacts with Executive Schedule officials at other agencies, in the case of very senior employees). The unmodified term "matter" did not appear in these provisions until 1989, when section 207(c) was amended to replace "particular matter" with "matter" and section 207(d) was first enacted. Pub. L. No. 101-194, § 101(a), November 30, 1989. OGE also occasionally uses the term "matter" in ethics regulations, for example, in the description of teaching, speaking and writing that relates to an employee's official duties. 5 C.F.R. § 2635.807(a)(2)(E)(1).

2. What the Phrase Means

It is clear that "matter" is broader than "particular matter." See 17 Op. O.L.C. at 41-42. Indeed, the term is virtually all-encompassing with respect to the work of the Government.¹¹ Unlike "particular matter," the term "matter" covers even the consideration or adoption of broad policy options that are directed to the interests of a large and diverse group of persons. Of course, the term also includes any particular matter or particular matter involving specific parties.

Nevertheless, it is still necessary to understand the context in which the term "matter" is used, as the context itself will provide some limits. In 18 U.S.C. § 207(c) and (d), the post-employment restrictions apply only to matters "on which [the former employee] seeks official action." Therefore, the only matters covered will be those in which the former employee is seeking to induce a current employee to make a decision or otherwise act in an official capacity.

¹¹ A now-repealed statute, 18 U.S.C. § 281 (the predecessor of 18 U.S.C. § 203), used the phrase "any proceeding, contract, claim, controversy, charge, accusation, arrest, or other matter" (emphasis added). One commentator noted that the term "matter" in section 281 was "so open-ended" that it raised questions as to what limits there might be on the scope. Manning, at 50-51. Manning postulated that some limits might be inferred from the character of the matters listed before the phrase "or other matter." Id. at 51. Whatever the force of this reasoning with respect to former section 281, the same could not be said with respect to 18 U.S.C. § 207(c) or (d), as neither of these current provisions contains an exemplary list of covered matters.

Question 8: On January 29, 2019, you signed an Order (Order No. 3345, Amdt. 24), of “Temporary Redefinition of Authority” to “ensure uninterrupted management and execution of duties of vacant non-career positions during a Presidential transition pending Senate-confirmation of new non-career officials.” This is to ensure the duties of 8 vacant leadership-level political employees are carried out by other officials on an acting basis.

These positions include the directors for the National Park Service, the BLM, Fish and Wildlife Service, and others. We are in the third year of this administration, and the President has yet to announce nominees for some of these positions. Your Order implies Senate confirmation is “pending”; but for 6 of the 8 positions there is no nominee pending. Do you believe the “transition” is still underway?

A. Considering we are into the President’s third-year, do you think this redefinition practice sidesteps the Constitution’s “checks and balances” framework?

B. Would you commit to ending this practice of having so many officials in an acting capacity and request the President formally submit nominees to fill these positions?

Response to questions A and B: The Vacancies Reform Act (VRA) places conditions on how a position requiring confirmation can be filled in an “acting” capacity. Additionally, the law allows the head of an agency to delegate to departmental employees certain “non-exclusive” functions of roles contemplated to be filled by Senate confirmed individuals. Interior Order 3345 and the Department Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1950 are fully compliant with the VRA. Nevertheless, we hope for speedy confirmation of all nominees.

Question 9: Regarding the ongoing reorganization effort within the Department, information pertaining to the creation of these 12 “unified regions”, which problematically splits my home state of Nevada into two different regions, as well as any information about potentially moving the headquarters for the BLM to a western state, has been very vague and hard to come by – yet the President’s budget requests $27.6 million to continue these efforts. Can you provide an update today on the status of this effort and will you commit to provide a briefing to this committee before any structural changes or announcements are made?

A. I previously asked this to Secretary Zinke, but did not receive an adequate response, so I will ask you the same - What studies or analyses have been done in order to determine if there are needs for this reorganization? Have any analyses been prepared on how the proposed changes will correct identified needs? If so, would you share those with us? The response I received from the Secretary was vague and seemed to indicate there were no such studies or other documentation to otherwise guide any of these decisions.

Response: On August 22, 2017 the Department’s regions were realigned after Congress agreed to Secretary Zinke’s reprogramming request. As a result, we are now in the phase of implementing the reality of that action. Simply put, the Department’s bureaus evolved independently over many decades, each with its own geographic regions. This structure, with 49 geographic regions, was complex and not optimal for efficient citizen service. In order to improve citizen service, delivery of shared services internally, facilitate improved inter-bureau coordination and communication, enhance cooperation in shared mission interests and activities, reduce the confusion that differing bureau boundaries cause the Department's partners and the American public, a new regional structure that established 12 Unified Regions went into effect in August, 2018. We are working now to align the bureau's structures to the new boundaries. We expect to complete revisions to the Departmental Manual to reflect the unified regions this spring.

As part of the analyses conducted, we commissioned external third party evaluations of information technology, acquisition processes, and human capital services. Some complex supporting processes and systems will take time to fully implement. For example, implementing changes to align the budget and financial structures and systems to the new regions will be phased in over an extended period. Feedback from the external reviews will help us make sound business decisions and will inform implementation strategies to help us improve administrative function and thereby free up resources for citizen-facing work.

We do propose to move certain functions west. We are developing business case analyses of proposed moves so that spending and relocation decisions are made wisely in order to best enable the bureau to most effectively accomplish its mission and responsibilities.

By streamlining and improving business practices, shared services, and operations, the Department and its individual bureaus will more effectively accomplish their missions. We are committed to thoroughly evaluating the impact of these changes - to measure success and identify any improvements that should be made. We are evaluating performance metrics that can help assess and improve the 3 mission areas (Recreation, Collaborative Conservation, and Permitting) and shared services (human resources, information technology, and acquisition services). By examining performance metric data early in the process, we will ensure that the implementation is nimble and flexible enough to allow us to make any necessary course corrections during the implementation phase.

Question 10: The review conducted by Interior on monuments created by the Antiquities Act over the past twenty years, and the subsequent Presidential decision to remove protections from large swaths of Bears Ears and Grand Staircase-Escalante National Monuments was largely determined behind closed doors. Following the controversial changes to the aforementioned monuments, it is unclear what further considerations to other monuments awaits. Is there active work being done in the Department to pursue changes to other monuments that were on the monument review list? Can you clarify what the next steps are for the remaining national monuments that have not been "pardoned" or altered?

A. Would you commit to rescinding the recommendations that former Secretary Zinke made to President Trump as part of his national monuments review?

Nomination of David Bernhardt
Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee
March 28, 2019

Response: The review of national monuments conducted by former Secretary Zinke in accordance with the President's direction in Executive Order 13792 was informed by the Secretary's travel to eight monument sites in six states, more than 60 meetings held by the Secretary and his staff with hundreds of advocates for and opponents of monument designations, a review of more than 2.4 million public comments, and multiple tribal consultations. Public input in this review was robust. Secretary Zinke provided a report to the President. Ultimately, under the Antiquities Act, the President is solely authorized, in his discretion, to declare, by public proclamation, national monuments.

Follow-up: Would you commit to not writing or rewriting any monument management plans in any manner that is inconsistent with the intent of the original proclamations?

Response: I commit to implementing the President's proclamation in accordance with all appropriate laws and regulations.

Question 11: Please provide data on both how much and what percentage of the land that has been offered for onshore oil and gas lease sale while you have been Deputy Secretary is designated as low or no potential? What percentage of land currently available for oil and gas leasing on a noncompetitive basis has been designated as no or low potential? Please provide data on how many of BLM's Reasonably Foreseeable Development Scenarios (RFD's), which are used by BLM to inform land use planning and leasing decisions, are more than five years old? How many RFD's has BLM completed overall?

Response: The BLM advises me that since August of 2017, 2,626 parcels have received bids at competitive lease sales covering 2.74 million acres. During calendar year 2018, a total of 1,412 parcels received bids, covering nearly 1.5 million acres at competitive lease sales.

The BLM generated $1.1 billion from 28 oil and gas lease sales in calendar year 2018, an amount nearly equal to the BLM's entire budget for FY 2018. It was the highest-grossing year on record, nearly tripling what had been the agency's highest year ever in 2008.

BLM does not have an official resource designation to track resource potential on a national level. Individual Resource Management Plans (RMPs) and field development Reasonable Foreseeable Development (RFD) scenarios identify areas, in that time frame, that are expected to have resource potential. However, given recent technological innovations, areas once thought to have low potential have been shown to have more promising energy resources. The U.S. Geological Survey maintains the National Oil and Gas Assessments, but many of these are outdated due to technical advancements allowing for development in new formations that were previously thought to be low potential. The BLM does not track whether nominated lands or lease parcels were designated to have low or no potential in a RFD scenario.

Noncompetitive leases are considered low potential, since they did not receive bids during competitive lease sales. Because these are estimates made at a particular time and are subject to change, whether a lease is designated high and low potential is not maintained in the leasing databases. It is disclosed to the public during the individual lease sale in NEPA compliance documentation. These documents are posted on BLM's ePlanning website and in the public room 45 days prior to the start of the lease sale.

There are a total of 74 completed RFDs, primarily tied to RMPs. Of those, 36 are more than five years old, many in areas where drilling is not occurring.

Question 12: When were the federal bonding rates for individual leases, statewide bond minimums, and nationwide bond minimums last updated? If these rates were adjusted for inflation, what would they be today? Considering that bonds insure against serious degradation of public land, can you explain why the Interior Department has declined to keep bonding rates on pace with inflation, and at levels that are far lower than what many states require for drilling on state lands?

Response: The BLM advises that its regulations establish the following minimum bond amounts: $10,000 for an individual lease; $25,000 to cover all leases of a single operator in a state; and $150,000 to cover all leases of a single operator nationwide.

The bond amount for individual leases was set in 1960, while the statewide and nationwide bond amounts were set in 1951. The BLM conducts bond adequacy reviews of each oil and gas bond every five years and makes adjustments as needed. These reviews assess the level of potential risk and liability posed by an operator.

Question 13: How does the federal onshore oil and gas royalty rate compare to royalty rates in Colorado, Montana, New Mexico, North Dakota, Texas, Utah and Wyoming? When was the federal rate last updated? How much additional revenue would taxpayers receive if federal rates matched, or exceeded, these states' rates?

Response: The Mineral Leasing Act stipulates that the Federal royalty rate be no less than 12.5 percent. The state royalty rate in Colorado is 20.0 percent, Montana is 16.67 percent, New Mexico is 12.5 to 20.0 percent, North Dakota is 16.67 or 18.75 percent, Utah is 12.5 to 16.67 percent, Wyoming is 12.5 or 16.67 percent, and Texas is typically 20 to 25 percent. It is important to note that Federal oil and gas leases are subject to different regulations than state oil and gas leases. Also, in most of these states, obtaining a permit to drill takes significantly less time and costs less compared to the Federal permitting system.

The Government Accountability Office (GAO) concluded in the Report to Congressional Committees 17-540, Oil, Gas, and Coal Raising Federal Royalty Rates Could Decrease Production on Federal Lands but Increase Federal Revenue, June 2017 that "Raising federal royalty rates—a percentage of the value of production paid to the federal government—for onshore oil, gas, and coal resources could decrease oil, gas, and coal production on federal lands but increase overall federal revenue, according to studies GAO reviewed and stakeholders interviewed. However, the extent of these effects is uncertain and depends, according to stakeholders, on several other factors, such as market conditions and prices.”
